Music Charms Pupils of Franklin School

undisputed success in the Franklin school. The victroin, which was made possible for the school by the scherosity of the W. C. T. U., is in the first grade room and when the children are resiless from the half day sessions, Miss Cella Simmans, the teacher, will play some record like Traumerel, or Cavalleria Rusticana on the victrola and the varied assortment of little Mexicans, Americans, Italians, and Chinese will fall under the spell of the music and become quiet. And after a few records have been played the kiddless are ready for their work again.

When Traumers! was played for the first time, one youngster became so affected by the music that he buried his head in his arms and went shoud. When the children seem listless and uninterested, no amount of talking or exertion on the teachers' part can arouse them as well as the playing of "Siempre Fidelia." that swinging military march made familiar to El Pascans by the 27nd infantry band. The children have named it the soldiers' march and call for it frequently.

At their games during recess and on other occasions the music thas taken a place in brightening the lives of the children of this school that nothing else has been able to supply. The felk dances are being learned by the dance records, and there are English songs that the children learn to sing with the phonograph.
